FOREWORD – CHAIRPERSON OF OCO

It is with much pleasure that I introduce and present the new Strategic Plan for the Oceania Customs Organisation (OCO) that covers the period 2022-2027.

Six strategic priority areas have been incorporated into the Plan and a Measurement and Evaluation Framework has been developed to ensure appropriate action is taken on each of the respective goals listed under these strategic areas which are:

- Customs leadership
- Law enforcement and border security
- Trade management and facilitation
- Revenue management and compliance
- Institutional strengthening of small Member administrations.
- Institutional Strengthening of the OCO Secretariat

This Strategic Plan has been prepared over a period of seven months with the assistance of two New Zealand-based consultants and is the product of extensive consultations and dialogue with OCO members, partner organisations, regional stakeholders and OCO staff.

The OCO is a dynamic and professional organisation which is staffed by very competent officers. I have every confidence that the Plan will augur well for Member administrations over the next five years.

I commend this Plan to our Governments, Members and partners.

1. INTRODUCTION

The Strategic Plan covers the period 2022-2027, which coincides with the conclusion of the 2017-2022 Strategic Plan.

OCO is forecasting changes in international movements and anticipates the following developments:

- The impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic which will endure for some time
- Constantly evolving geo-political and socio-economic relationships impacting trade, including recent Chinese initiatives in the Pacific
- Greater international harmonisation of systems, policies and protocols, including intelligence sharing
- Increased workload for Customs
- Increased volume and speed of movement of goods and people
- Streamlining of Customs processes through digitisation and other mechanisms
- Continuing increase in e-commerce
- Enhanced data collection
- Increased costs
- Increased intelligence sharing
- Emerging players in the shipping and goods movement industry
- Enhanced capacity to track and monitor goods
- Better cooperation between countries

OCO anticipates changes in the movement of illicit goods as follows:

- Increased contraband movement (drugs, counterfeit goods, money laundering, smuggling)
- Increase in new and innovative approaches by criminals to continue their illicit activities
- Increasing evasion of duties and taxes
- Increasing difficulty in detection of illicit goods due to increasingly sophisticated methods of concealment
- Increase in cyber-enabled criminal activity, cybercrime and related threats

OCO will strive to take active steps towards future readiness which is critical to the success of the Organisation and its Members. This Strategic Plan sets out the actions required to achieve this.

2. OCEANIA CUSTOMS ORGANISATION

The Oceania Customs Organisation (OCO) was established in 1986 originally with six-member Customs organisations under the Customs Head of Administration Regional Meeting (CHARM), it became OCO in 1998 and progressively expanded until in 2011, Timor Leste became the most recent member.

The OCO comprises twenty-three nations and territories that are autonomous Customs jurisdictions in the Pacific. The twenty-three-member countries comprise sovereign nations and territories that are autonomous Customs jurisdictions in the Pacific. These include American Samoa, Australia, Cook Islands, Fiji, Federated States of Micronesia, French Polynesia, Guam, Kiribati, Republic of Marshall Islands, Nauru, New Caledonia, New Zealand, Niue, Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands, Palau, Papua New Guinea, Samoa, Solomon Islands, Timor Leste, Tonga, Tuvalu, Vanuatu and Wallis and Futuna.

The main business of OCO in the formative years was to facilitate the Annual Conference and to coordinate communication and information sharing among members. Since that time, Customs reform, and modernisation has been an important strategic objective as it has become apparent that the growth of international trade together with cross-border fraud and smuggling in the prior years had substantially increased the workload of Customs.

Members' characteristics vary substantially from small microstates and territories that have very small cross-border terms of trade that are heavily import-dependent, to much bigger well-developed member countries and territories that have relatively large terms of trade, including commodity exports. These widely varying characteristics underscore the work of the OCO in meeting the expectations of its members, as well as the demands of increasing global trade and cross-border movement of people, capital, goods, and services.

Eight OCO members are also members of the World Customs Organisation (WCO), and eight members are also members of the World Trade Organisation (WTO).

3. VISION AND MISSION STATEMENT

The OCO Vision Statement is:

The OCO to be recognised as a dynamic Regional Customs Secretariat that collaborates with regional and global partners to develop and deliver high quality and sustainable outputs to Member administrations.
